Week 11

Phrasal structure and Verb complementation

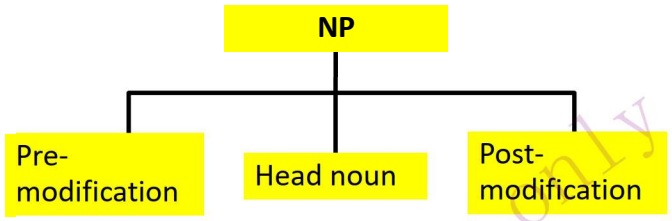

Internal use only

Key issues

1. Phrasal structure
   - 1.1. Noun phrase
   - 1.2. Verb phrase
   - 1.3. Adjective phrase
   - 1.4. Adverb phrase
   - 1.5. Prepositional phrase
2. Verb complementation

1.1. Noun phrase

- Typically constructed by either a noun or a pronoun as the head & other constituents as modifiers.
- Apart from its head, all other constituents are optional.
- Functions as subject, object, complement or adverbial.

internal use only

Noun phrase

Can be expanded in many ways.

- N: dogs
- Det N: the dogs
- Det Adj N: the large dogs
- Det AdjP N: the loudly barking dogs
- Det Adj N PrepP: the ferocious dog behind the fence
- Det AdjP N PrepP: the wildly yapping dog on the sofa
- Pronoun: He
- Prounoun: Matty (Brinton, 170)

1.2. Verb phrase

- A phrase headed by a verb
- May be constructed from a single verb or a combination of a main verb and any auxiliary verbs.
- Call
- Calls
- Called
- (Have) called
- Have been called
- Have been being called
- Will have been being called

Internal use only

1.3. Adjective phrase

- A phrase with an adjective as head as in

  (He was) happy.

  (He was) so very happy.

- Can be expanded in many ways:

Adj	fierce
Degree Adj	very fierce
Adv Adj	fiercely barking
Degree Adv Adj	very fiercely barking
Adj PrepP	dear to me, tired of him

1.4. Adverb phrase

- A phrase that does the work of an adverb in a sentence
- Can be expanded as:

Adv	quickly
Degree Adv	very quickly

internal use only

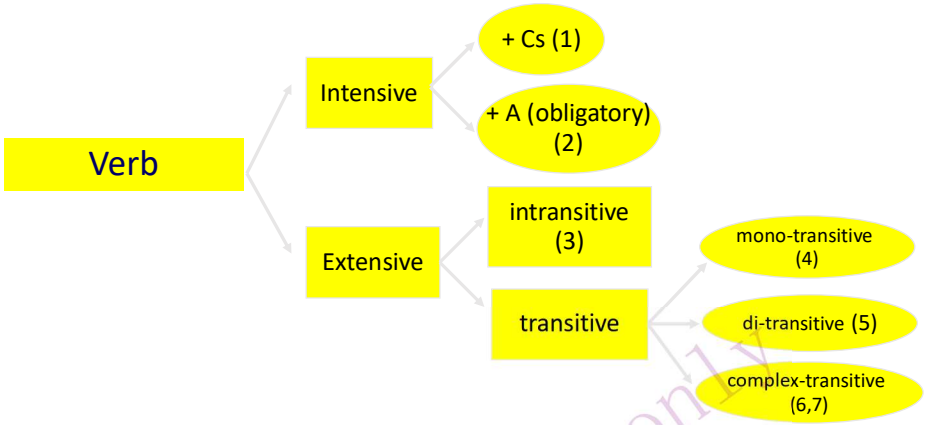

1.5. Prepositional phrase

- Typically consists of a preposition followed by a a NP or a wh-clause or V-ing clause.
- Can be expanded as:

Prep NP	on the beach
2Prep NP	from behind the door
3Prep NP	out from under the table

2. Verb complementation

- Not all verbs can stand alone. Below are units that complement verbs, which are generally obligatory in a clause.

internal use only

Verb complementation

He is lovely.	SVCs (1)	intensive
He is out of the office.	SVA (obligatory) (2)
He is crying.	SV (3)	intransitive	extensive
He broke the vase.	SVO (4)	transitive
He sent me an e-mail.	SVOO (5)
He found the play boring.	SVOCo (6)
He put the vase on the table.	SVOA (obligatory) (7)		